THE HISTORY OF LANCASTER HIGH

The first high school was situated on School Street, but in 1902 a larger building was erected behind the old one. Joseph Blaby was the architect, while Rumrill and Carter were the contractors.

In 1887 the University of the State of New York registered the academic department of Lancaster Union School as a high school, governed by a board of education.

The first graduates were Florence M. Holbert, Eleanor G. Bissell, and Erwin W. Oehem, all completing the course in three years. Graduation exercises were held at the Town Hall. Previous to this time students of Lancaster and surrounding communities attended the Parker Academy in Clarence and Central High School in Buffalo.

At that time the prime purpose of the course was the preparation for college. Preparation for vocational and life activities is, however, the chief aim of our present-day courses. Bookkeeping was considered, in the early days, as a necessary course. Chemistry was, however, taught rarely, while physics was taught more frequently. Astronomy, physical geography, geology, botany, and physiology were offered. Commercial law and geography came into the curriculum in the 1900's. The English department was divided into numerous branches, such as rhetoric, American Literature, and English Literature. Besides German and Latin, Greek was taught. These subjects, with perhaps a few others, constituted the curriculum.

The personnel of the board of education consists of five members, a clerk, and a treasurer. This board, by virtue of authority vested in it under the state educational laws, possesses the power of making the rules governing the administration of the system, rules which must, of necessity, be observed by teachers and students alike. The members of the first board of education were Mr. John Garrettsee, Mr. Jacob Gottschalk, Mr. Thomas Leary, Dr. John G. Miller, and Mr. John Leininger.

Dr. John G. Miller had been a member of the board approximately forty-two years and served as president of the board thirty-eight years. Until his death, in December 1934, he had served this district loyally with his faithful and untiring attendance.

The village superintendent is appointed by the board of education and is, at all times and in all ways, subservient to it in all matters pertaining to the educational interests of the school system. Mr. P. J. Zeilman was the first superintendent from 1920 to 1921, while Mr. F. L. Smith, our present superintendent, assumed his position in September 1921.

As many of our older citizens no doubt clearly remember, the first principal of the Lancaster High School was Mr. B. B. Farnsworth, who was followed by Mr. W. J. Barr in 1904. In 1908 Mr. L. C. Higley was principal, while in 1910 Mr. P. J. Zielman. Miss Nora A. Kinnicutt assumed her position as principal in 1919, but in 1930, because of illness, she retired. In the spring of 1932 Miss Kinnicutt passed away.

Miss Kennedy in past years and now Mr. H. W. Kling have served as Junior High School principals.

The present high school building on Aurora Street was erected in 1922. Michael Wendel was contractor, while Miller and McNeil were the architects. It was a three-story, red brick building, having two side entrances and a large central one, with a spacious rectangular lawn hemmed in by shrubbery and dotted with trees and a flagpole. There is a garage on the north side and to the rear. An unusually fine athletic field is directly behind the school. The first floor accommodated the main office, music room, nurse's office, auditorium, gymnasium, girls' and boys' dressing rooms, home economics rooms, cafeteria, and candy store. On the second were the seventh, eighth, and ninth grade rooms, library, junior principal's office, and two study halls, while on the third floor were the English rooms, lecture hall, commercial rooms, history room, language rooms, mathematics room, chemistry and physics laboratories, senior principal's office, and study hall. On all floors there were corridors, with lockers on both sides and two drinking fountains.

Mr. J. H. White has acted as senior principal since 1931. Last year he was the principal of the largest class, approximately 84 graduates, in the history of Lancaster High.

Since 1930 home economics, music, vocations and occupations, literature, public speaking, more drawing and business courses, and sciences have been organized and offered at the Lancaster High School. This year senior science was added to the curriculum. Physical education is now considered a necessary course, and not extra-curriculum work.

In 1935 the high school building was remodeled and enlarged. Townsend and McNeil were the architects, while Michael Wendel was the contractor. An addition to the high school was made, a larger and more modern cafeteria was formed; the shop room was enlarged; a bicycle room, as well as a table tennis room, were placed in the cellar; a kindergarten and the first three grades were on the first floor, while the home economics room was moved to the second floor; a social science room was also added to the first floor. A girls' shower room and commercial rooms were added on the second floor, while the junior high school rooms were moved to the new addition, and the library to the third floor.

The activities of Lancaster High School have increased considerably during the last few years. Social, science, literary, musical, and similar clubs have offered themselves to the curriculum.

The present board of education includes Mr. J. R. Adolf, president, Mr. Frank Seeger, Mr. Ballard Clark, Mr. Arthur Stutzman, Mr. Charles Mohr, clerk, and Mr. Lawrence Church, treasurer. At the time of the writing, the vice-presidency is vacant, for Mr. L. K. Brown has left town.

Mr. Frank L. Smith, superintendent, Mr. J. H. White, senior principal, and Mr. H. W. Kling, junior principal, comprise the present executive staff.

As we review the history of our school we realize that it has had a glorious beginning and we hope that it will have an even more glorious future.

LANGUAGES

At Lancaster High School several language courses are offered. The prime purpose is to teach the language; second, to promote general intelligence concerning foreign countries; last, to further international understanding.

The course in Latin, taught by Miss Calkins, aims primarily to give the individual a basic knowledge of it. German, also taught by Miss C. Calkins, and French, taught by Miss Louise Davis, aims, however, to meet all the purposes mentioned in the previous paragraph.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The physical education department of Lancaster High School offers a varied, broad and sufficiently elastic program to meet the needs of the different types of students.

It is the aim of the physical education and coaching staff to provide a well-rounded program of intramural, recreational and interscholastic activities.

The program is under the direction of Miss Florence Gillette and Mr. John J. Java. The coaching staff consists of Mr. White, Mr. Kling, Mr. Java, Mr. Ockerman, and Mr. Simmons.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Good American citizens are formed by knowledge of their social environment and good training; the social studies department of our school endeavors to give the students this training. In Social Science Miss Snyder instructs them in the machinery and functions of our political, social, and economic life; in Economics in the business of earning a living. A three year course in history devoted to the study of the development of human society attempts, under the instruction of Miss Cowan, to make them aware of the achievements and failures, the inspiration and pitfalls of the past, that their judgment and sympathies may be broadened to cope with the complex problems of today. The entire program stresses current problems.

SCIENCE

The purpose of the science department at Lancaster High School is to train students for professions, although for the average person the chief aim is to bring about a more intelligent way of living.

The course in general science, taught by Miss Frances Ruffner, and senior science, taught by Mr. Robert Wright, tend to give the individual a more intelligent view of life. The courses in chemistry and in physics, taught by Mr. Wright are designed to train the students in the field of chemistry and in the field of mechanics respectively. In addition, biology, taught by Mr. H. W. Kling, is offered for the sake of those students who expect to enter any of the various branches of biology.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

The purpose of the Commercial Department is three-fold: To provide vocational knowledge, provide proper social habits, and to provide business knowledge for personal use. The teachers are: Miss Gracia Haight, Mr. E. W. Ockerman, and Miss Eleanor Smedley.

The Commercial Department offers three courses: Bookkeeping offers the student an opportunity to obtain instruction for vocational and personal use; a Stenographic course offers a student training in typing, shorthand and general stenographic techniques for both social and vocational purposes; the Clerical course provides the student with a knowledge of general office techniques and sufficient control of techniques for successful vocational participation. This department also provides many students from other courses with valuable electives.

THE ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

Our high school's English courses acquaint students with great American and English authors, distinguishing between genuinely good books and those which are "cheap" or only briefly popular. Correctness in expressing one's self, especially in writing, is another aim of English, and equally important is the attempt made to direct students toward the best in radio and motion pictures. So the four years of English are not just a school subject, but a source of lasting value for life after high school.

Besides the usual four years of English, American and English literature and World Literature are offered here.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

This department enables the student to have a knowledge of and an appreciation for music; teaches him co-operation, responsibility and leadership; and allows him, if he has the ability and desire, to pursue technical courses in preparation for a career in music.

Besides the three major activities of band, orchestra and chorus, our Music Department offers girls' glee club, instrumental instruction and two academic courses, History and Appreciation of Music and Rudiments of Music. It is hoped that more may soon be added.

Home Economics

All musical activities of the High School are under the direction of Marlo K. Schermerhorn.

HOME ECONOMICS

"Preparation for Real Living" might well be the motto of the Home Economics Department for it focuses its attention upon the two important problems of the home: the selection of the food, clothing, and shelter from the standpoint of hygiene, economics and art; and a study of the relations of the members of the family to each other and to society.

The department offers the following courses under the direction of Miss Florence E. Putnam:

1. Home Economics II--Foods
2. Home Economics IV--Clothing
3. Home Economics VI--Home care and decoration

MATHEMATICS

Lancaster High School offers a number of mathematics courses, designed to meet the needs of prospective college students and also of those who do not plan to enter college but who will require a knowledge of the simpler aspects of geometry and of the mathematics of the home and community.

The course in General Mathematics, taught by Miss Merle Davies, aims to meet the needs of the latter group. Elementary and intermediate algebra, taught by Miss Irene Wende, and plane geometry, taught by Mr. John White, fulfill the New York State mathematics requirements for a college entrance diploma.In addition are offered courses in advanced algebra, solid geometry, and trigonometry for the sake of those students who expect to enter any of the various engineering fields.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The objectives of the industrial arts department are: 1) to motivate interest in and create knowledge about the principal fields of industry and the educational and occupational opportunity related thereto; 2) to develop manual ability in the use of common tools that will help the pupil in his daily activities; 3) to increase knowledge of industrial products and processes; 4) to provide an opportunity for creative expressionand problem solving through the medium of tools and materials; 5) to explore the boy's inclinations, interests, and abilities in occupational pursuits. A. I. Brock and W. R. Simmons, Jr., teach the following subjects: Industrial Arts I, Advanced Cabinet-Making, Auto-Mechanics, and Electricity.

Mr. Patterson, teacher of English I, Miss Huber and Mr. Sallack, who both have classes in English II and III, and Mr. Bigelow, in charge of English IV and the literature courses, are the personnel of this department.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

Public Speaking in Lancaster High School is a required, one-semester course offered to students of both the junior and senior classes. While it makes no pretense, in one short semester, to make an orator out of any one, it does offer, instruction and practice in the fundamentals of speech work, under the direction of Mr. J. S. Bigelow, involving the theory and application of the principles of social and business intercourse, parliamentary law, round-table discussion, debating, oral interpretation and dramatics.

A R T

We are all artists but probably not one out of the thousands of us will ever produce great masterpieces. Our participation in art will more likely be that of the consumer. The high school art courses--Design I & II & III, Representation I & II & III, and Mechanical Drawing I & II, offer a wide variety of experiences which held develop in us standards of critical judgments, appreciation, and some art skills.

The art department is under the supervision of Miss Mabel E. Bates.

THANK YOU

We of the Senior Class wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation for the splendid initiative and cooperation of all who helped make our 1939 Cayugan a success.

We are indebted to Miss Bates and the Art Department for the many decorative sketches.

To Miss Smedley and the Commercial Department we owe a debt of gratitude for typing all of the material turned in.

The teachers of the English Department did a splendid job in the correction of spelling, punctuation, and grammatical construction of the articles.

Lastly, we want to thank the many contributors who were not seniors, but contributed much material to our project. Unfortunately, not all of this material could be used because of lack of space.

CLASS HISTORY

The Class of '39 began its eventful career by electing Mr. Brock as their adviser, a choice which has proven more and more fortunate as the class has advanced toward its goal: graduation. The freshman year officers were Chester Snyder, president; Dale Greenwood, vice president; Nicholas Mashlonick, treasurer; John Land, secretary. Although the freshman year was successful socially, it was by no means brilliant financially, a fact which is also applicable to the three years which followed.

During '35 and '36 our class sponsored two dances, a baked goods sale, and a class picnic. No senior will ever forget the frogs which were laboriously created to provide decorations for the "Frosh Leap Year" dance, or the nightmares populated by footballs which were the aftermath of the Football Dance.

"The Kingdom of Books," a pageant which we presented at our junior high graduation, was generally conceded to be our outstanding freshman achievement, probably because of the able direction which we received from the faculty.

Our sophomore year featured the "Sophomore Hop," which has since become an L. H. S. tradition. During this year our cabinet consisted of Katherine Cretekos, president; Gerald Schieflee treasurer; Marion O'Hern, secretary. Prized were donated by class members for the card party and dance which the class sponsored. Our Hallowe'en party, supposedly a masquerade, was notoriously lacking in costumes.

Our junior officers were Chester Snyder, Dale Green-wood, Gerald Schieflee, and Jeanette Miller. After our Valentine and Jitter dances, we embarked on a long period of hard work and careful planning; the result, however, was well worth all our labor; the '38 Junior Prom was a memorable occasion, as any who were present can testify.

When our class entered its senior year, we were faced with a tremendous responsibility: to finance and publish the second issue of the "Cayugan". On our shoulders rested the burden of making an annual a L. H. S. tradition; if we failed, no other "Cayugan" would ever be published. With this realization to spur us on, we began a period of feverish activity, selling hotdogs at football games (another innovation), furnishing undergraduate classes with emblems, selling magazine subscriptions, and finally selling the actual yearbooks. It is only through the hearty co-operation of all the departments of L. H. S. that we are able to present this issue of the "Cayugan."

On April 12th, the Class of '39 presented its Oriental Ball. The credit for this social, if not financial success, must be given to the decoration committee, which worked faithfully during vacation, and to Mr. Brock, who cheerfully gave up his vacation to supervise preparations.

At the present time, the last achievement of this class is in the throes of preparation; I refer to the annual Senior play. We are proud to present John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln," with a cast headed by Glenn Leich, our president, and the most gifted thespian of our class.

Thus concludes the story of our four years of trials and tribulations, cares, worries, and responsibilities, but, more important than any of these, friendships, laughten, and "fun". We leave this legacy to those who follow.

BAND

The band has participated in many activities this year. The first appearance of this organization was at the Hamburg Fair in August where it won a cup in the band content, Class B. When the Football season began, it played for all home games.

On December 1-3, six members of the Music Department, of which two were from the band, participated in the Music Clinic held at Ithaca, New York.

Two weeks later, on December 19th, the Band, Orchestra and Glee Club held their first concert of the season. On March 17, another concert was held by the band alone. The Band went to Akron, New York, on April 29, to compete in the Northwestern Music Contest, Class B division. It made its final appearance with the Orchestra and Glee Club at the May Festival where four of the members entered the solo contest held by the Lancaster Women's Chorus.

ACTIVITIES CLUB

The aim of this club is to aid other activities in successfully completing general school projects, and to teach its members the values of active co-operation.

The Club has had a successful year, increasing its membership to 30. This year the club provided its members with black and silver pins which will be provided each new member. On February 17, 1939 our Amateur show packed the school Auditorium. The money made on this entertainment will enable the club to provide a gift for the school before the year is complete.

FOOTBALL

Lancaster High closed a successful football season, winning five out of seven games. In the first game of the season, Lancaster suffered a 13-0 defeat at the hands of an experienced Le Roy team; but this loss was made up at the first home game, by the defeat of Hamburg 20-0. A week later, Sloan fell a victim to the Red and Black forces by a 21-0 decision. Next to be trampled by the Maroon forces was Pine Hill, to the tune of 14-0. The final home game of the season proved to be a real thriller, with Lancaster meeting its traditional rival East Aurora. Lancaster won the game, staging a rally in the last two minutes of play, scoring a touchdown, scoring an extra point, to end on top 7-0. Journeying a week later to Amherst, the Maroon fell before their hosts 9-7, a safety providing the margin of victory. In the waning moments of the game, Lancaster attempted a field goal to tie the score, but failed. At Medina, the final game of the season, Lancaster won 15-0.

BASKETBALL

The '39 basketball team climaxed the most successful season in the school's history by winning the Western New York Class A Championship.

The strongest opponent during the season was Depew, who tied for league honors and who bowed out in the play-offs at Amherst to the score of 30-19.

This hurdle past, Lancaster moved against Silver Creek at East Aurora. This game, in spite of the excellent attack and defense, required two extra periods for the Maroon and Black to overcome, 35-33, the last obstacle to the Western New York Class A. Championship.

Sheldon, Ackman, and Greenwood were outstanding on the offense with Phillips, Vesper, and Bonazelli taking care of the defense.

BASEBALL

At the end of the season the maroon team lost the following players, whose all round hitting, pitching, and fielding helped the team finish in a second place tie: Chet Snyder, Harry Georgini, Martin Stetz, Eddie Phillips, Laurence Sheldon, Carl Monin, and Frank Prusak.

In the 1939 season the maroon team will have to use a string of new recruits, although they will still have a veteran infield.

Of the three dual meets staged at Lancaster High School field, Lancaster defeated Attica 56 to 34 and Akron 63 to 31, but lost to Amherst 37 to 49.

Lancaster placed fourth in the Intermediate Conference Field Day held at Amherst. R. Chennell, Kieffer, Watson, J. Phillips, Scheffler, Sandel, Ulrich, and Weber were able to score, and the relay team of Chennell, Watson, J. Phillips, and Simon came in third.

Lancaster scored a total of 215 points to their opponents' 185. Watson, with 35½ points, led the track team, and R. Chennell, with 31 points, placed second.

The name of "The Galloping Ghosts" was given to the 440 yard runners, Keiffer, J. Trojanowsky, and Schanne, who came in 1-2-3 in all the meets except the meet against Amherst, when they came in 2-3-4.

BLOCK "L"

In the hall of athletic fame we find our iron men, the men who have carried our colors to so many glorious victories. Although the organization is relatively young, the Block "L" has become one of the most active school organizations. They have sponsored a dance, a donkey basketball game, and an athletic banquet.

The following are the new members of the club: Bauman, Bonazelli, Caley, Creed, Girardin, Giza, Havernack, O'Grady, Sandal, Vesper, Weber.

The wearers of the Block "L" may well be proud of their achievements.

OLD ENGLISH "L" CLUB

Since the abolition of their inter-scholastic athletics, girls have acutely felt the need of competition in their sports. Almost everyone agrees that some form of competitive athletics is necessary to enlarge and improve the character and personality. To fill this need, the Old English L Club, now in its second year, was created. Interest in extra-curricular activities is stimulated, for it is in this manner that the letters and certificates, the club awards, are earned. The girls are allowed to start earning their credits in their freshman years, although the letter is not granted until the end of the junior year; a certain number of credits, however, must be earned each year.
